Physical description: 0.20 m of textual records and other material

Administrative history:

Lac du Bois Project was initiated as a research study and book project by Alastair McLean in 1976 while he was working as a research scientist at the Agriculture Canada Research Station in Kamloops, British Columbia. The project extended over the next five years and resulted in the publication of a book, Treasures of Lac du Bois, 1981, edited by McLean and written by Karen McLaren and Kenna Cartwright, and the creation of a resource file which was assembled from the research of McLean, McLaren, and Cartwright between 1976 and 1981. Funding for the project came from Weyerhaeuser Canada and a Local Initiatives Program grant from the Job Creation Branch of Canada Manpower. During the project McLean, McLaren, and Cartwright carried out original research by drawing upon a variety of sources such as archives, university professors, and government agencies, as well as by conducting 16 interviews with residents of the Lac du Bois area.

Scope and content:

Fonds consists of two accessions that document the Lac du Bois Project (1976-1981) and the work of Alastair McLean, Karen McLaren, and Kenna Cartwright on the publication Treasures of Lac du Bois and a resource file on the social and physical history of the Lac du Bois region. Records include correspondence, financial records, drafts, artwork, notes, clippings, photographs, and sound recordings. The fonds largely consists of the Lac du Bois resource file which McLean, McLaren, and Cartwright collected during the course of the project. Typically the files include copies of articles, reports, notes, and maps. A table of contents to the files is included. Also included are 16 oral interviews which were conducted with Lac du Bois pioneers by McLaren and Cartwright in 1977. Written transcripts of the interviews are included in the resource file entitled "people". Also included is an album of photographs of early Lac du Bois residents taken between 1909 and 1940.
